

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Methods and compositions are provided for blocking the calcium cascade. More particularly, compositions and methods are provided that inhibit histamine reactions triggered by the calcium cascade, using the naturally occurring pH gradients in the body to deliver therapeutic doses of metal ions which block the calcium cascade.